

The Carmel Pine Cone

Editor's Column

Carmel, Calif.
Feb. 13, 1957.

Editor, Pine Cone,

I was horrified to see this morning, as I went to the post office, that one of the most magnificent trees in Carmel was being cut down. It was the tall, straight, symmetrical eucalyptus just north of Fifth Street on the west side of San Carlos—and it was located on public property. Application had been made by the nearby private property owner to the city council for permission to cut the great tree down. I understand that, it was thought necessary by council members that favorable action be taken on the application.

In this situation, I believe it imperative that great and sustained effort be made to see that the city of Carmel and its elected representatives be given every necessary authority freely to refuse the request of any private property owner who might at any future time seek to have any tree, deemed a community asset, cut down.

Trees are important in Carmel—much more so than in the usual small town. Carmel is not usual. It is unique. And it requires special and specialized treatment. Trees on public property are the concern of every true Carmel resident—and no selfish, private interest should be allowed to force the cutting down of even a single one.

Gunnar Norberg.

Editor's note: The Carmel City Council has all the authority it needs to refuse requests for tree removals, and the "insurance and liability considerations" in this case are no different than those applicable to any tree growing on public property in Carmel.

The council has allowed this tree to be destroyed, and given permission for the removal of four eucalyptus trees on Eighth Street between San Carlos and Mission, ~~for reasons former city councils~~ would not have considered. In doing so, this council has deprived the town of five beautiful, healthy, mature trees and established a dangerous precedent.

February 12, 1957.

Dear Mrs. Cook:

Please use this dollar to start a fund to spare those five eucalyptus trees the council saw fit to condemn. And shame on the Council!

Can't something be done to prevent this order of the council from being carried out? Who on the council is responsible for such a thing being possible in Carmel, Carmel, where we used to protect our trees.

Again—shame on the council.

J. N.

If dollars would do it, there would be no problem, but there is no substitute for public anger. If the council is made to feel that the majority of the people in Carmel disapprove of their policy they may change it. A letter to the City Council, City Hall, Carmel, should help.

—Wilma Cook.

Citizens Testify At ABC Hearing To Kids' Using Park For Playground

Though Devendorf Plaza is not officially designated as a playground, and is not furnished with playground equipment, Carmel children play on its lawn in sufficient numbers so that the location of a bar across the street from the park would be undesirable.

A parade of witnesses testified to the above fact before the public hearing Monday morning

No Valley Trailer Court For Wilmot; Campground, Maybe

When it became clear, yesterday, that the county board of supervisors would deny his application for a use permit for a trailer court up Carmel Valley, Mark Wilmot substituted a request for a permit to operate a picnic and campgrounds at the same site. The location is at the intersection of Carmel Valley Road and the turn off to the Cachagua grade. Mr. Wilmot is to present plans for his camp at the February 26 meeting of the commission at 10:00 o'clock.

Attorney Carmel Martin Jr. represented John Marble and Francis Brown, landowners near Wilmot's property, who protested the proposed trailer court. Robert Homans, a San Francisco attorney, presented the protests of Mrs. H. B. Russell and Mrs. Grace Douglas, also neighboring property owners.

The area is zoned for agricultural-one acre homesite use; the trailer court would not be consistent with the other uses of the upper valley; also it would detract from the scenic beauty of the valley road and reduce the desirability of neighboring property, argued the protestants.

The trailer court was also opposed by the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association and the Upper Carmel Valley Advisory Committee.

"A bunch of rich people opposed to a fellow making a living," grumbled wealthy Planning Commissioner Walter Rosenberg. "I don't think it's fair."

Gen. Bullene Warns Of Smog Dangers In Talk Before Club

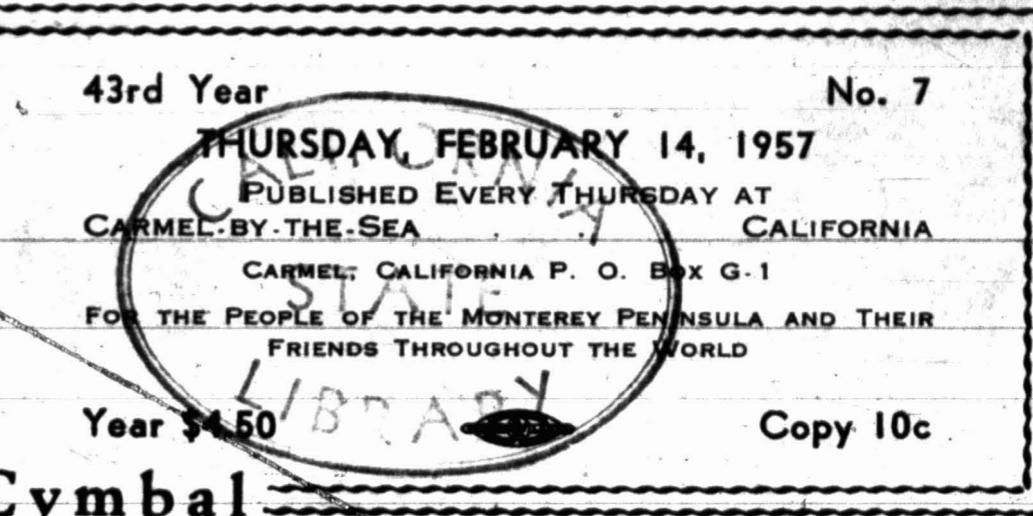

"Some people think it can't happen here," said Major General E. F. Bullene talking on Smog at the Carmel High Twelve Club luncheon last Friday.

"But," he continued, "when Monterey becomes a deep sea harbor, as it will, industries come in, more people and automobiles are here, there may be a day when lettuce growers will have the same problems that orange growers have in Los Angeles."

Major General Bullene, now living in Carmel, is former Chief Chemical Officer of the Army, Commander of the Chemical Corps and Advisor to the Army Chief of Staff and Secretary of the Army on chemical, biological and radiological warfare.

Smog is not only a local problem, but national and international, according to General Bullene. It is a health menace in New York, London and Tokyo he told High Twelve members. It is nothing new, he continued, Cabrillo

Co. Planners Ask Farr To Amend Billboard Bill

The Monterey County Planning Commission, at its meeting yesterday, decided to ask Senator Fred Farr of Carmel "to add to his anti-billboard bill, SB666, a provision so that nothing in the bill shall prevent counties from enforcing more restrictive legislation."

Ed DeMars, secretary to the planning commission, read a letter from Northern California Council of Outdoor Advertising, asking the county planning commission to oppose the bill, sponsored by the senator from this district and the California Roadside Council, which would prohibit billboards within 500 feet of any freeway, or any highway designated by the county as scenic. It would allow advertising of roadside business and of bypassed towns and resorts, subject to the approval of the director of public works.

Chairman Don Colgrove pointed out that Monterey County is already protected by zoning and that all billboards will have to come down by 1960, except in commercial and industrial zones.

Mr. DeMars said that under Bill 666 the state would pre-empt powers of the county. The director of public works would determine the extent of road side business advertising.

Loring Burns didn't like the idea of "people having to run to Sacramento for a sign: it's too much trouble."

Sam Black commented that "it might be a good idea."

Keith Evans noted that other counties are not so well protected as ours. He would like to see state legislation for control of billboards if it didn't interfere with local regulations which were more restrictive.

At this point Chairman Colgrove proposed that Mr. DeMars confer with Senator Farr on an amendment to the bill that would protect counties with more restrictive billboard ordinances, and the commission agreed.

Monterey County Industrial Development Corporation's request for a smog study was referred to department of health for a report of need. Mr. Colgrove spoke favorably of Watsonville's ordinance prohibiting backyard burning. He thought other cities should pass similar ordinances.

Moscow Art Theatre Play Opens Friday In "Ground" Playhouse

Leonid Andreyev's He Who Gets Slapped opens at the Forest Theatre-in-the-Ground, Mountain View and Santa Rita Streets, on Friday night at 8:30 o'clock and runs both Saturday and Sunday evenings, starting at the same time.

The modern classic drama is presented under new policy adopted by the Forest Theatre Guild, according to President Ron Bostwick. This year only "plays of merit" will be given by the group in the newly painted, cleaned and carpeted small theatre which also now has adequate heating and is "warm and cosy in the evening," says Bostwick.

Archie Hess, graduate summa cum laude of the Pasadena Playhouse, directs He Who Gets Slapped. Hess comes to the peninsula from the Old Dock Theatre in Charleston, South Carolina, where he was director and instructor. In (Continued on Page Twelve)

KING CITY MUSTANGS AT CARMEL GYM FRIDAY NIGHT

King City High's basketball squads invade the Padre pavilion Friday night for a pair of league games and both schools will be fighting to escape the damp dark cellar of the CCAL B-division. The varsity squads of Carmel and King City are currently locked up for last place in the hoop chase and a win for either one would earn a deadlock with Gonzales for the fourth spot. Carmel's lightweight squad has found victory number one very elusive this season and is firmly anchored in the basement. However, King City has only one victory to its credit and is within hailing distance of the Little Padres.

In the first meeting at King City, the Padre varsity put together a solid game to jolt the Mustangs, 55 to 30, as Charley Dawson went on a 21-point scoring spree. The King City Ponies clipped the Little Padres, 36-22, in the first round but this Friday's lightweight tilt should be much closer with the Carmel Babes actually favored to win. The Little Padres have made good showings against some of the better lightweight teams in the area and are hungry to get on the win trail. The Carmel lights will open with a starting unit of Jack Faia and Walter Helm, forwards; Jamie Holman, center; with Jim Lee and Frank Wallace at the guards. Unit number two which has shown rapid strides in recent weeks consists of David Farr and John Eickman, forwards; John Doud, center; Pete Willcox and Pete Osborne, guards.

Carmel's varsity will go along with the platoon system which finds a fresh quintet taking the floor every four minutes. The Padres employ the full-court press all the time and a rest is in order after four minutes of this defense. Taking the floor to open the game will be Bill Hicks and Clyde Klaumann, forwards; Bob Durbrow, center; Andy Gray and Bill Wallace, guards. The second platoon is manned by Fred Bruggeman and Jim Bannerman, forwards; Art Wilkerson center; Charley and Dale Dawson, guards.

CARMEL HOOPSTERS TRIPPED BY LIVE OAK

The Carmel High basketball squads journeyed to Live Oak (Morgan Hill) Saturday night for a pair of league hoop tilts and found the Oaks and Acorns pretty tough to crack as the hosts won both ends of the twin bill. The Acorns packed too much speed and experience for the Little Padres and snowed them under, 44 to 25, as Ronald Nauty shovved through 13 points in the first quarter. Carmel's varsity dropped a 51-49 decision to the Oaks after a spirited contest which saw the Padres connecting for 20 field goals to 12 for the hosts. However, the Live Oak lads were extremely accurate at the free throw line, making good 31 of 40 attempts. On Friday night, the Oaks edged Gonzales by superior shooting at the free throw line, taking full advantage of the 1-and-1 rule.

A disastrous first quarter betrayed both Carmel teams as the Padrecitos fell behind, 15 to 4, in the first heat and the Padre varsity got in the hole, 17 to 4, at the end of the first period. Both teams battled back to close the gap but the handicap was too much to overcome.

David Farr, sophomore forward, turned in a fine performance for the Little Padres, connecting for 6 points and doing a strong job on defense. A newcomer to the squad, John Doud, wore the lightweight spangles for the first time and showed good moves around the pivot spot. John hit for a pair of field goals and garnered his share of the rebounds.

Bob Durbrow and Dale Dawson each hit for 9 points to lead the Padre varsity in the scoring department. However, Live Oak's Dick Williams got 18 points by himself to take the game's scoring honors.

LITTLE LEAGUE BASEBALL SET FOR THIS SUMMER

One of the big needs for the vicinity of Carmel has been realized as the good news is announced that the Village will at last have a Little League for Carmel youngsters. With President Bill Woolsey at the helm, the league machinery has been set to rolling, work is starting on the field below the Mission, sponsors are assured and qualified managers have volunteered to handle the highly important job of teaching baseball fundamentals to the Little League aspirants.

In recent years, Carmel youngsters have been forced to go over the hill to Monterey if they wanted to participate in the Little League program. This was a severe inconvenience for the Carmel sprouts and also added to the already overcrowded conditions in the Monterey Little League program. The Carmel Little League step is a big one insofar as Village athletics is concerned and the benefits derived from it will pay off with better baseball as the players advance into the high school and get into interscholastic competition. Carmel has been at a disadvantage in high school competition in the last few years as all the other schools in the league enjoyed the benefits of the Little League program. Now, with a new field and the Little League program, Carmel youngsters can look forward to equal competition with the other schools in the league.

SERVICE - SERVICE - SERVICE!

What's DIFFERENT about the service at CLYDE N. YOUNG? This begins a series of ACTUAL CASE HISTORIES* to show you why we can offer you the finest service on the Peninsula.

Take Mr. R., for instance. His car was sideswiped by a swaying trailer truck. The whole side of the car was smashed, grill partly crushed, front end knocked out of line, etc., etc., etc. Because of insurance requirements, TWO ESTIMATES were necessary before work could be started.

OUR ESTIMATE at CLYDE N. YOUNG, was $50 less than the other, AND, we did the job RIGHT in two days. Much later, when a rattle developed which might have been caused by the repairs, we were happy to fix it FREE. Satisfied? Mr. R. has now been our steady service customer for three years, and says, "As long as I live anywhere on the Peninsula, we'll come to CLYDE N. YOUNG for service. Their prices are FAIR, and they STAND BEHIND THEIR WORK. They are PROMPT, and your car is ready WHEN PROMISED."

Festival Quartet Review

BY EBEN WHITTLESEY

Music Society members who came to hear the Festival Quartet Tuesday evening with their usual "Show me" attitude concluded the evening by stamping and cheering. The large audience abandoned its usual reserve with good cause. The performance of piano quartets by Mozart, Schumann and Brahms was compact and brilliant.

Victor Babin at the piano, Szymon Goldberg, violin, William Primrose, viola and Nicholai Graudan, cello form a closely knit, finely balanced ensemble capable of great flexibility and subtle interpretation. The fact that William Primrose, widely known as a soloist, and familiar to the Carmel audience, was among his peers only serves to emphasize the excellence of the group.

Mozart's quartet in G minor, K 478, written at the height of the composer's popularity, provided a brilliant opening. The fluent, lively first movement was performed with vigor but with the requisite lightness. In the gentle and wistful andante, one could realize how much easier it is for the comparatively untrained listener to appreciate musical structure when the ensemble includes a piano rather than four strings. In the frothy rondeau of the third movement a brilliant piano part was kept in fine balance with the strings. Mr. Babin's clear style and light touch seemed ideally suited to this type of performance.

The Schumann piano quartet Op. 47 in E Flat Major was written in 1844, not long after the marriage of Robert and Clara Schumann, and one may readily imagine that the brilliant piano part was composed with Clara in mind. The first movement is bright with characteristic fanfares and flourishes repeatedly building to a crescendo and dying away, interspersed with passages of clear melody. An excited and tense scherzo was followed by a dreamy and lyric andante full of atmosphere. In the dramatic finale a perfectly united musical ensemble moved smoothly from one climax of excitement to another, its effectiveness not the least disturbed by a broken string on the cello. Mr. Graudan adroitly tossed the loose end over his shoulder and continued unperturbed.

Following the intermission the group settled down to Brahms' monumental quartet in G Minor, Op. 28. Through the lucid first movement fine melodic lines emerged against a solid background of the strings. Typically Brahmsian massiveness was achieved without loss of clarity. The second movement was full of thoughtful study and involved melodic development. A powerful andante movement with a declamatory quality was remarkably reminiscent of passages in Brahms' great piano trio, No. 1 in F Major, Opus 8. The sweep and power of the music was very stirring.

In the last movement, Rondeau alla Zingarese, the strong Hungarian and Gypsy influence was apparent. The music sparkled with a hectic gaiety, dominated by a brilliant piano part. This stirring finale left the audience in a highly responsive state of excitement. Applause was mingled with stamping and cheers. It would be hard for any one but a pedantic technician to pick flaws in a thoroughly brilliant performance. This writer not being of that category, can only report a most stimulating and highly satisfactory evening.

Firemen Honor Wives Saturday

The American Legion Hall will be decorated Saturday afternoon by Carmel firemen in preparation for the cocktail, dinner, and dancing party that evening they have planned for their wives. Each wife will be given a corsage as she arrives as a token of appreciation for unprotestingly allowing her husband to attend drill each Thursday night, and especially for understandingly having hot coffee ready for her husband when he returns tired from fighting night fires.

A three piece orchestra has been engaged by the firemen to play for the dancing. Seventy persons are expected to attend the party.

Friends Honor John Molteni With Surprise Dinner

All members of the Carmel Street Department, their wives, Street Commissioner James C. Buffington Jr., and Mrs. Buffington gathered at the home of Street Superintendent William Askew Sr. and Mrs. Askew on Friday evening for a surprise dinner honoring John Molteni, who is retiring from the department on March 1 after 17 years of caring for Carmel streets.

William Askew Jr. was assigned the task of getting John to the party unaware that he was to attend festivities in his honor. During the afternoon Bill Jr. told John there was some information, pertinent to John's retirement, that his father must have early in the evening and that he would pick John up at his house after work and drive him to Street Superintendent Bill Askew Sr.'s home, so that the matter could be finished without delay.

Work over, Bill Jr. hurried to John Molteni's house to be there before John ate his dinner. He found the unknowing guest of honor relaxing in blue jeans and bedroom slippers and told him there was no need to change. Superintendent Askew's information seeking session wouldn't take long.

John and Bill Jr. arrived at the street superintendent's home where the four Askews kept John chatting until all the guests arrived in a body at 6:30 o'clock. Superintendent Askew had provided a 25 pound turkey for the dinner, served buffet style, in the dining room from a table covered with a cream lace cloth and lighted with tall gold tapers in silver candlesticks. Mrs. Askew Sr. and Mrs. Askew Jr. had planned the menu. Each member of the street department had drawn slips of paper on which had been written the dishes their wives were to prepare, so that everyone present at the party had a share in the preparations.

After dinner Superintendent Askew presented John with an electric blanket from the street crew and Mr. and Mrs. Buffington with a card signed by all "the gang".

Then Superintendent Askew discovered it was John's birthday, and produced the only birthday card in the house, with a very big purple orchid on the front, and "the gang" signed that, and sang Happy Birthday, too.

The rest of the evening was spent with the men reminiscing about John's years with the street department. Many things, most annoying when they happened now are humorous, especially when related by John, and he was urged to tell more and more anecdotes about the street department before everyone wished him goodnight and a long and happy retirement.

"I am glad to be alive," was John's expression of thanks for the happy evening.

Those who shared the evening with John, besides the four Askews and the Buffingtons were Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. F. Brewer, Mr. and Mrs. John Guerin, Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Roman, V. H. Ragsdale and daughter Shirley, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Lange, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Miller, Tom Moreland, Dennis Narvaez and his fiancee, Barbara Tibbets.

Mrs. Lyle Brown Is Local Agent For Britannica Junior

A new agency for Britannica Junior, was opened this week by Mrs. Lyle Brown, former resident of Carmel who has just returned from several years in Portland, Oregon.

Britannica Junior, published by the same firm which prints Encyclopedia Britannica, is a complete children's encyclopedia and reference handbook, suitable for children from "one day through Junior High School age", according to Mrs. Brown. The first sections of the books are given over to information for parents on infant care and the training of preschool children. Other sections are geared to the age of the child, so that youngsters can get into the habit of "looking it up" . . . themselves . . . at an early age.

Mrs. Brown has the exclusive agency for Britannica Junior in Carmel, and will show the books by appointments in parents' homes. She has recently represented Britannica Junior for two years in Portland, where she felt "the enthusiastic response to these fine reference books made it a pleasure to introduce them to parents."

CURTAIN FOR SUNSET

Sunset Auditorium is to have a new stage curtain before graduation. Principal Orville Rogers is appointing a committee, representing groups which use the auditorium, to help him select the material and color for the new curtain. Music On The Peninsula

BY MARY LINDSAY-OLIVER

Karl Ulrich Schnabel, the unsurpassed genius of the piano who thrilled people at the Golden Bough two years ago, was greeted by an audience at Sunset Auditorium who already knew the high status of this dynamic and individual artist. Never in my experience here have I witnessed such heart-felt enthusiasm for a performance of piano works or a consciousness so clearly evident that a great musician was present. Recently from London, where he filled the huge Festival Hall, Schnabel presented the same classical program given there with its illuminating notes by D. M. Forster. From the first declamatory sounds of Beethoven's Sonata Pathétique to the final encore, the artist's power of interpretation held everyone so enthralled the stillness could be felt and convinced this writer for a second time that only Paderewski and Carreño had ever stirred her as Schnabel can! Spiritual concept and unforced strength, intensity of emotion and spontaneous poetry in tones that flowed from a mind and hands that could emulate Beethoven's majestic stature in dynamics, intent, and precipitated avalanches of sound, was far above any remembered performance of that great sonata. Conveyed was the dignity, impulsiveness and sublime mental mood in which Beethoven must have composed it. In one's many years of listening to the best on both sides of the Atlantic it will remain an unforgettable experience.

A number of recalls followed, then the Schumann Papillons and Schubert Moments Musicaux received similar vital treatment in brilliantly sympathetic qualities with every change of mood adjusted to rhythmical characterizations that would have elated the hearts of both composers, considering the treatment these compositions usually receive. The Romantic Waltz in the Papillons almost set the audience revolving, so joyously and intriguingly did Schnabel emit the smooth, emotional and pulsing melodic lines. His whole concept of tonal values and balance was superb, with extraordinary command of pedaling that achieves outstanding effects. Even Mozart might have been surprised at the metamorphosis of the three pieces written for the organ-waltz—a kind of music-box—for the charming contours of these little pieces on the piano were given—as Forster had described—with their 'greatness in utter simplicity'.

Three Chopin numbers, the Grand Valse Brilliant in E major, the Nocturne in F sharp minor and the A flat major Polonaise completed this distinguished program, which gave out so much more than piano-playing, achievement that only the highest spiritual perceptions of an inspired musician, and not mere technique, makes possible. Nothing could have been more brilliant than the Valse and Polonaise in Schnabel's Chopin authority. The sensitive Nocturne—the favorite of the composer and seldom given—displayed again the deeply poetic and legato singing qualities that flowed in the Beethoven Adagio of the Sonata, with a completely balanced robato, and a delicate finish of phrase that is hardly comprehended in most of today's harsher impetuosity. These, with the commanding tour de force of the Polonaise, drew such an ovation of admiration that the Chopin Nocturne in F major was added, then the Liszt Canzonetta del Salvator Rosa and the Mendelssohn Funeral March, a sombre but dramatically stirring bit from the Songs Without Words, this surprisingly, is little known or played, but always one of my favorites. After such a shower of inspiration the audience was still loathe to depart and many went back stage for the pleasure of greeting so great and friendly a pianist, for whose appearance here we are indebted to the discriminating initiative of Margaret Lial.

The Occidental College Choir from Los Angeles was heard in the Carmel Presbyterian Church in a program of unusual choral and solo numbers that included old and modern composers and white and negro spirituals. This large good-looking group of seventy-two good voices, dressed in gowns of the College colors, was conducted by Olaf Frodsham and sang to a full house, with enthusiasm and fine attack, accompanied at the organ by Mary Patricia Duemler.

David Sager, baritone, exhibited a voice of rich, deep quality with enunciation that was a joy to listen to in McGuinsey's Sweet Little Jesus Boy. Soprano soloists Merry Papagiannis and Elma Adair in Blair's As the Heart Panteth and A God of Love My Shepherd Is by Thuman, showed excellent voices and capacity. They delivered their message with a happy emphasis, too seldom heard in Church music. Frodsham handled expertly the whole choir and smaller ensembles.

The Time Has Come .

By Kippy Stuart

All the experts, all the tomes on horticulture, tell you that certain plants will not bloom in the winter. Among these specified varieties are godetia, bachelor-buttons or scabiosa. In this locality these three plants are annuals. Their blooming period is supposed to be from April to November. Nowhere in Carmel have I ever seen any of these flowers blooming in December, January or February.

Well, Andy Reinhold, a home gardener in Monterey, evidently has not read or even heard these restrictions. Andy is a self-made gardener, frequently the best sort, for he goes right along doing what he wants to do with astonishing results. He heard me spouting to a group of friends on this theory that godetia and scabiosa would not bloom during the winter months and a broad smile spread across his face, as much as to say . . . "Is that so?" The next time I saw Andy, late in December, in his button hole reposed a perfect godetia. Our next meeting brought forth a perfect scabiosa, and last week, if he didn't appear with a true-blue bachelor's button on his lapel!

So . . . I give up. Out my window goes all the preconceived scientific "don'ts" and I am going to consult Andy Reinhold on what and when to plant. So many natural gardeners are better equipped to experiment. So many of us book-learners are hampered by the don't in the books. A garden is a place to have fun and what could be more fun than producing out-of-season flowers to the amazement of one's friends?

Just the same, I am planting my godetia, scabiosa and bachelor buttons on schedule, hoping to achieve what my Monterey neighbor has achieved. Now is the time to broadcast seeds of these three and many other spring and summer flowers. The ground must be dug, or at least ruffed up so the seeds will have small crevices into which to fall. The ground then should be lightly raked, and kept moderately damp.

Hard rains are apt to wash out these seeds, yet if you get your rake, after the deluge, and do a small job of smoothing the soil, you still can beat the storm.

Speaking of STANDARDS OF LIVING . . .

Americans enjoy the highest standard of living in the world today, perhaps the highest attained by any people in the history of mankind. Yet in today's same world there are human beings who never during their lifetimes have a shelter over their heads. This is true in India, for example, where families sleep, live, eat and exist on the sidewalks of crowded cities. In other parts of Asia the cost of an American movie ticket would represent a month's food and sustenance for a family of 5.

Leadership and pre-eminence bring responsibility. Since we are first in many things, it is our duty to maintain high standards in our own community by spending money here, by purchasing what we need here, by setting a pattern of progress and prosperity, first in our own environment.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

Ruth Galvin Thorneburg, Librarian

In mystery stories it tells of a dull thumping noise from down-stairs which so startles the honest characters that they hurry down to see what is causing the disturbance. In case you hear such dull thumpings from the library basement some time in the near future, do not hurry down to find out what is causing the disturbance because we can tell you right now that it will be furnace men repairing one of our furnaces. We have two furnaces, and one of them got out of order last week. The other is still working, but one is not enough to heat our great high ceiled building. The new furnace will be installed as quietly as possible. We may be a little noisy, but there is nothing we can do about it, so be patient. Good times are a-coming.

We have several new novels for you. The Mermaids by Eva Boros has had good reviews. It is a poignant story of a young man and the girl with whom he fell in love. The girl was a patient in a tuberculosis sanatorium. The story has an atmosphere of unreality, and of being somewhat removed from the hustling world of today.

Jacques Carton's first novel to be translated into English is entitled La Belle Sorel. It is the love story of Charles VII of France and beautiful Agnes Sorel, who came to the court as a lady-in-waiting to the queen.

For those who like a British flavor to their fiction, there is a mystery story by Ferrars entitled Kill or Cure. There is another English novel by Felicity Shaw which is called The Happy Exiles, and a new book by Alistaire MacLean with the title Guns of Navarone. This is another war story by the man who wrote H.M.S. Ulysses.

We have the new book of poetry by Marianne Moore entitled Like a Bulwark. None of the eleven poems included here have been previously published in book form. An exciting real life account of the Andrews Raiders in the Civil War is told in Charles O'Neill's new book The Wild Train. The story is told in the actual words of the men who participated in the raid and in the resulting chase by rail over 86 miles of southern territory.

A most interesting book and one which will recall a well known California case of a few years ago is The Strange Case of Constance Flood by Willa Iverson. Mrs. Iverson was a reporter who covered the entire trial in which Constance May Gavin brought suit against the heirs of James Flood, for a share in the estate and with the purpose of proving herself the daughter of Mr. Flood. The story is told partly in the words of the court record and partly in Mrs. Iverson's personal experiences during the trial. You may recall that the trial ended in a near riot, with petitions for the recall of the presiding judge, and was later settled out of court. No decision was ever handed down as to the real parentage of Constance May Gavin, who passed away in Los Angeles in 1951.

We have two copies of Herb Caen's new Guide to San Francisco, and even though you may have spent much time in that delightful city on the bay, this book may give you information of value to you for your next trip up there.

Come on in. One more little book won't hurt you! By the way, you might be interested to know that our circulation for 1956 hit an all time high of 131,000 volume. Thank you, we just loved charging them out to you!

Doolittle Show At Gumps

Marjorie Doolittle's one man show opened at Gump's Gallery in San Francisco on Monday and will remain on display until March 2. Mrs. Doolittle is exhibiting paintings which she did in Italy two years ago and Monterey wharf scenes. Hal Wilmett, director of the gallery, was especially desirous to have the Italian pictures as he knows Italy well and admired Marjorie Doolittle's interpretation of the country.

Mrs. Doolittle plans to go to San Francisco on Monday to see the show and remain in the city for three days.

Stamp Club Scramble

At the last meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Stamp club, Colonel John R. Wright presided and Lieutenant Benton C. Reams conducted the auction.

Miss Lydia Weld brought a sheet of Mexican stamps commemorating the International Geographical Convention held in Mexico City. This convention was attended by geophysicists from Iceland and places all over the globe. Miss Weld's niece was among these scientists. L. S. Stallings bought this sheet. Mrs. Marion K. Reid and Miss Sally Reichard won the door prizes.

Fred Houston, a new member, gave a talk on covers. He exhibited albums of covers among these, two with the "Penny Black" stamp.

Among the visitors were Mrs. G. K. Reid and Lieutenant L. Smith from the ALS.

The next meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Stamp Club will feature a Stamp "Scramble" and a talk by John M. Lindley, writer and philatelist from Boston, Massachusetts.

Refreshments will be served by Mrs. Alfred Balsam and Miss Sally Reichard. All stamp collectors on the Monterey Peninsula are invited.

Carmelites At Merced Banquet

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Thompson Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Robertson drove to Merced last week end to attend the Charter Banquet of the new G. Dick Richardson High Twelve Club on Castle Air Force Base. Four hundred persons were present at this banquet from 22 High Twelve Clubs in this section of California.

The G. Dick Richardson Club is the second to be Chartered on Air Force Bases. The first is Hap Arnold Club on March Air Force Base, which was chartered last fall. Captain William Ward, president of Hap Arnold Club, was present to install the officers of the new club. Captain Richardson, in whose honor the new High Twelve Club was named, was conducting an electronics research problem aboard the B-52 Aircraft involved in an accident on Sept. 17, 1956 near Madera, California. Mrs. Richardson, mother of three daughters, was introduced and given a huge standing ovation.

Barbara James Married

Barbara Ellen James and Ensign Daniel Edward Willard were married at 4:00 o'clock on Saturday afternoon in the First Congregational Church, Hollywood, with a large group of Carmel persons present at the ceremony. The altar was massed with white stock and greenery and clusters of stock and greenery tied with white satin ribbons marked each pew of the ribbon enclosed center aisle.

The bride, escorted by her father, Daniel James, son of Mrs. D. L. James of Carmel Highlands, was preceded up the aisle by seven ushers, one of whom was John Williams of Carmel Highlands.

Following the ushers were two flower girls, Cathy James, sister of the bride, and Honey Williams of Carmel Highlands. They were dressed alike in pale aqua satin ballerina length gowns with high round necks and fitted empire style bodices defined by a fold of the satin with a bow of the same material centering the front of the bodice and another in back with long streamers.

The fitted waists of the dresses extended into skirts full in front with back fullness contrived by deep fishtail pleating. They wore coronets of deep pink roses and net and carried nosegay bouquets centered with the same roses surrounded by lighter pink carnations and pale pink candytuft tied with pink satin ribbons, as did the bridesmaids. Their shoes matched their dresses.

Junior bridesmaid was Mardi Lloyd of Carmel wearing a satin dress the same color and design as those of the flower girls but with V neckline back and front, and the skirt shorter and straighter in front.

Among the six bridesmaids in dresses of deep aqua satin the same design as the junior bridesmaid's were Nancy Lofton and Lucinda Lloyd of Carmel.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Angela McCance in a deep rose floor length gown the same style as the other attendants but with silver embroidery outlining the bodice and front lines of the dress. She carried a shower bouquet of the same flowers as used in the nosegays.

The bride, who entered the church to the Mendelssohn wedding march, wore an heirloom Victorian satin gown mellowed to a soft beige shade. The neckline, square in front, was edged by gathered chiffon flowers centered with small ivory colored glass beads. The same flowers and others of beading, outlined with a flowing leaf design of old gold thread embroidery, marked the center and side panels of the fitted bodice and extended down the straight front and sides of the skirt to end at the floor in ruching which lined the inside of the skirt and the short train formed by deep pleats falling from the waist.

A small lace crown held the bride's shoulder length veil in place and she carried a shower bouquet of white orchids, grown by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Pratt of Carmel Highlands, arranged with white narcissi.

Robert Willard was best man for his brother.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents where Mrs. James received the guests in a shocking pink taffeta dress and small hat of white flowers. The chartreuse orchids in her corsage were sent from Carmel by the Pratts.

Mrs. Philip S. Willard, mother of the groom, attended the wedding in a blue grey knit dress, small black velvet hat and her corsage was of purple orchids.

pale green taffeta gown with a corsage of orchids also grown here by the Pratts.

After a short honeymoon at an undisclosed destination Barbara and Dan will be in San Diego for six weeks then leave for Hawaii where the bridegroom will be stationed for the next two years.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip S. Willard of Sacramento. He is the grandson of Mrs. Edward Peters of Cincinnati who came west for the marriage.

Padre Trails

The Padre Trails Camera Club at their meeting last week in Sunset School Cafeteria selected in the black and white print, Cypress Pescadero Point, by Admiral E. C. Forsyth, U.S.N. retd., for reproduction on the 1957 program cover.

By club vote, the photo was selected as best from among 20 submitted by members.

At the same time, Program Chairman Col E. L. Modlin, U.S.A. retd., announced that Adm. Forsyth was installed as president of the Central Coast Counties Camera Club Council at the council's annual banquet and meeting in San Jose.

The Padre Trails Club was awarded a perpetual gold loving cup for winning first place in interclub competition during 1956. The award was earned through competition points on entries made by Ernest Victorine, Phil Brown and L. C. Hect.

Next Padre Trails Club meeting will be at 8:00 o'clock February 21 at Sunset School Cafeteria in Carmel with competition in black and white and color. Membership Committee Chairman, Mrs. Helen Day, issues an invitation to interested photographers to attend next meeting as guests of the club.

Youth Conference At Asilomar

California rural youth is having the opportunity to participate in classes taught by some of the state's outstanding youth workers at the 8th annual Young People's Leadership Training Conference which opened at Asilomar this morning and will continue through Sunday. The California Farm Bureau is sponsoring the meetings.

350 CARMELITES IN SNOW

Carmel High School Ski Club members were in Yosemite from Friday until Tuesday for their annual trip to the snow. Accompanying them this year were parents, friends, sisters and brothers, until Carmelites in Yosemite Valley numbered 350 persons according to Lloyd Miller of the High School faculty who made an unofficial tally.

In spite of rain all day Sunday, making the snow sloppy, the Carmel skiers remained on the slopes. On Tuesday, when it rained again, some persons left early but others stayed on to enjoy the last day to the last minute.

Only casualty was Tony Birmingham who broke a leg. He does not attend Carmel High but went on the expedition to be with his friends.

Leslie Doolittle Wed

Nancy Jean Ferguson and Leslie Leroy Doolittle were married in All Saints' Episcopal Church, Riverside, on January 26, the day after Leslie graduated from Claremont Men's College with an humanities degree. The young couple are now living in Riverside while Nancy completes her sophomore year at the University of California, and Leslie waits to find out if he has been admitted to the Naval Air Cadet training program.

For her wedding the bride chose a pure silk gauze gown with embroidery applique accenting the portrait neckline of the bodice and forming a garland on the full skirt of the dress. A coronet of tulle, similarly embroidered, and studded with seed pearls held her veil in place. She carried a shower of lilies of the valley and a white orchid arranged on a white prayer book. She was given in marriage by her brother, Charles Ferguson of San Francisco.

Peggy Duncan, classmate of the bride, was her attendant in a pastel blue faille and satin gown. She carried a bouquet combining blue and white sweet peas, hyacinths and iris.

Billy Boucher of Riverside was best man and ushers were Earle Jorgensen and James Gould of Los Angeles.

Travelling from Carmel to Riverside for the ceremony were the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Doolittle, his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Watson, and his sister, Patricia Doolittle, student at San Francisco State College.

Leslie graduated from Carmel High School where he was president of the student body. He attended Monterey Peninsula College for two years before completing his education at Claremont.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

God's great healing and saving power will be brought out at Christian Science services this Sunday.

Scriptural selections will include the following from Matthew (15: 30): "And great multitudes came unto him, having with them those that were lame, blind, dumb, maimed, and many others, and cast them down at Jesus' feet; and he healed them."

Subject of the Lesson-Sermon is "Soul" a word which, when capitalized, is used in Christian Science as one of the synonyms for God. Passages to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include the following (210: 11-16):

"Knowing that Soul and its attributes were forever manifested through man, the Master healed the sick, gave sight to the blind, hearing to the deaf, feet to the lame, thus bringing to light the scientific action of the divine Mind on human minds and bodies and giving a better understanding of Soul and salvation."

A major cause of smog according to General Bullene is the "North Pacific Inversion Blanket" which hovers along the west coast of North America.

"It must have been out at sea when the early fathers called Los Angeles the City of Angels," he said.

What makes Los Angeles particularly vulnerable is that the San Gabriel range of mountains runs along the coast and comes closer to the ocean above and below Los Angeles, forming a pocket around the city.

The Coast range East of San Francisco is not as high as the San Gabriel Mountains, so the smog there has less trouble spilling over into the San Joaquin and Santa Clara valleys. This is a help to San Francisco but brings complaints from the valleys.

Around Los Angeles when the inversion blanket moves in for a few days, with 2600 tons of impurities dumped into the air each day, by industry, home incinerators, auto exhausts and evaporation of gasoline in distribution, smog builds up to a danger point of health and life for humans and vegetation, he said.

General Bullene compared the solution of the problem in Los Angeles to "airing out a smoke filled card room back of a cigar store at 1:00 o'clock in the morning." The roof could be taken off letting the smoke out of the top of the room, and this might be done over Los Angeles by exploding an A bomb in the inversion blanket. This action would open up a chimney and draw the smoke away.

Another solution is opening the windows and letting the wind blow the smoke out of the room. Tunnels cut in the San Gabriel mountains, and huge exhaust fans installed to draw the smoke out into the desert is a suggestion for this solution but the cost of this would be prohibitive, and people living in the area must be considered. Third way to stop the smog is to stop smoking, said General Bullene.

With more automobiles in Los Angeles county than there are in 36 of the 48 states, a population of 13 million in California, and 1400 more people coming each day, or one half million each year, it does not look as though Los Angeles would stop smoking, thought Bullene.

The chance for relief would seem to be with the improvement of fuel, more modern truck and auto engines, and an improved system of marketing gasoline.

Letters To The Editor

Box 3563,
Carmel, California.
Dear Editor of the Pine Cone:

After an absence of several years I have returned to Carmel and the first thing I notice is that an exceptional amount of building has gone on, though the village life seems about the same and as yet, Carmel has not become the Big Town. The Planning Commission is obviously very active and I have just read Mrs. Comstock's article in the November Pine Cone praising certain stores that are mindful of landscaping. She cites the Carmel Craft studios as "creating a most attractive area" and also other buildings which have improved the landscape with shrubs and gardens.

I see that a new group of buildings has gone up near the post-office which seems to be in the spirit of the Golden Bough Court and the Tuck Box group all which were built in an earlier day, when much was added to the real charm of Carmel.

Since citations seem to be the order of the day, couldn't there be some badge or trophy given to those buildings that try to fit into the real Carmel landscape and that avoid the banal and the run-of-the-mill architecture? That would help those who drive around and admire the area know that we are conscious of what belongs to this community in terms of beautiful architecture and what is aberrant or what could be built just anywhere?

Robinson Jeffers has not only distinguished his community with his outstanding poetry but his house also is in the spirit of his poetry in that it keeps close to the integrity of the surrounding land.

Other houses that go up in Carmel look too often as though their owners think they might be building on an Illinois prairie or for Sioux City, Iowa; we see aggressive battlements, that don't fit into the land, butting themselves into the sea, droopy palms near-by look all right for a Cecil de Mille commandments film, but are not appropriate for a Carmel setting. One builder has taken a lovely old Carmel house, surrounded with trees, and methodically cut down every pine, put a cosmetic plastering of white stucco around the lovely old wood of the house. The result is something excellent in its way for Iowa or some tract in suburbia, but the attraction of the original setting is lost, as the white piling sits up like a sore thumb on the bared corner. A new flat-topped pinkish rectangle has gone up which at first looks like a small cannery but as you walk nearer, with a sinking feeling, you see that it is a house.

A trophy or citation would help builders and architects try to realize the essential spirit of Carmel in their materials and manner of building.

This doesn't have to be phony or pixie-like, nor does that which appeals to the eye have to surrender to the blatantly efficient and the functional; a house or a building that is considered a creative job is more than just what serves the needs of the owner, but it also would be a kind of gift to the community. The good Creator didn't exactly bring forth shoddy material when He carved out this area.

Sincerely,
Irene McCullen.

The Presbyterian Church was represented by Ralph Gordon in the absence of the pastor, who was out of town at the time of the hearing.

Edwin E. Grant, San Francisco, was attorney for the citizens.

The state board had already denied the transfer on the grounds of the nearness of the premises to the church and the park. Monday's hearing was on the Hearststone's appeal as well as the citizens' protests.
